SHINER TEX. THU., FEB. 13, '96

TEXAS mourns to-day. William Henry Crane, orator, statesman, patriot, is no more. The greatest and truest democrat of the Lone Star State has passed to the Great Beyond. His death took place at Washington Monday morning, after a three days' illness of pneumonia.

It pays to advertise. We had a local in last week calling for a copy of the GAZETTE of January 16th, and they are coming in at the rate of half a dozen a day.

LISTEN Friday and you will hear a dull, sickening thud out towards El Paso. It will be Fitzsimmons' big fist coming in contact with Maher's thick skull.

To judge from the amount of space devoted by some of our esteemed exchanges to the pug meeting at El Paso, they evidently think that the sun and moon will stand still and the earth tip over when the Great Fitzsimmons and Maher meet out there to each others faces. Friday is the day set for this great eye blacking and ear chewing, and in the meantime the world stands with bated breath to see which bruiser gets laid out.

THERE is a strange feature about the Shep Foley examining trial at Columbus last week; a feature that has created considerable unfavorable comment. It is stated that Foley made a complete confession and that his statement was admitted as evidence at his preliminary hearing. Then he was allowed bail in the sum of $2500, which, fortunately, he could not give. How could such a case be a bailable one? Or if it was, how could the amount of bond demanded be anything less than $10,000 for such a cowardly crime? Of course the negro could not give bond even if it were not more than $1000, but a jury might not look at it that way. We heard several gentlemen say when they read the account of the trial that "that settles it so far as hanging Foley is concerned. They can only send him to the penitentiary now." Foley killed a brave officer, and, while we do not uphold mob law, we believe it would have saved trouble and expense to have strung Foley up to a convenient limb.

Charles Othold vs State—from Lavaca: Conviction for murder in the first degree, life sentence. Affirmed. There was no error in overruling appellant's application for a continuance, no diligence having been used. Nor was there error in the failure of the court to charge on circumstantial evidence—the case being one of positive testimony. The objection to the charge on impeaching testimony offered by the defendant, that it is too restrictive, is not well taken. The evidence is sufficient. Opinion by Henderson, J.

Peck-Kokernot Nuptials.

At the residence of M. L. Kokernot, on Tuesday, February 4th, 1896, at 3:30 p. m., a few relatives and friends met to witness the nuptials of Mr. B. N. Peck and Miss Josephine Kokernot.

Messrs. Herbert and Walter Kokernot and Mrs. Carl Dilworth, brothers and sisters of the bride, Carl Dilworth, W. M. Fly and wife, James Lewis and wife and Miss Callie Peck represented Gonzales; there with Miss Nettie Fitzgerald and Miss Simpson, of Big Hill, constituted the guests on this occasion. Immediately after the ceremony the company was conducted to the dining room, where a table sufficiently long to seat all the guests at once was loaded with good things to eat. Some of the Gonzales delegation, at least, paid a high compliment to the dinner. The hostess had prepared the feast under great difficulties, as her time was largely given to her husband who recently happened to a severe accident from which he is now but slowly recovering. All in all the occasion was a most delightful one. At 5 p. m. the company dispersed. The newly married couple came to Gonzales and went at once to their home, the residence of Mr. B. N. Peck, where they were met by friends, congratulated and welcomed to Gonzales. At 7:30 a nice supper was served and the evening devoted to social conversation. I need not refer to the contracting parties, both are well and favorably known. May prosperity and happiness attend them.—Gonzales Inquirer.

A Sad Death.

A telegram was received here last Friday morning from A. F. Morene at Lyons Station, Burleson county, announcing the death of his wife there at 6:10 Thursday eve. As Mr. and Mrs. Morene had two children buried here, the body was brought back here for burial. A delegation of members of Rathbone Lodge, K. of P., of which Mr. Morene is a member, met the train from the south at 2:15 Friday eve, and the casket containing the remains was borne to the waiting room of the depot. A large number of friends had gathered at the depot in bugles and carriages and it was about 3 o'clock when the procession started for the K of P cemetery, where the interment took place. The services at the grave were conducted by Rev. James, and his remarks were very touching and impressive. Mrs. Morene was quite well known here and her death was universally mourned. She had been in poor health for some time. She leaves three little boys, George, Frank and Carl. Mr. Morene moved from here to Lyons about 3 years ago, and is in the employ of the railroad company there.

A Card of Thanks.

I deeply appreciate the kindness shown me by the good people of Shiner during my sad sojourn there last week. To my fellow K. Ps. and Revs. James and Thornbury, who conducted the services at the grave of my dear wife, I feel especially grateful. Everything that could be done was done to make myself and little boys as comfortable as possible.
